THE GIFT OF LESSING J. ROSENWALD
TO THE LIBRARY OF CONGRESS

A F x 1754

First complete edition [1733-1741], in 52 parts.
of the handsomest and most comprehensive of the English writing books of the 18th century.

A superb copy in contemporary vellum
with the original chased clasps.
The interior exceptionally crisp and fresh.
Engraved throughout.

P.H. Muir (in The Library 1945 and 1947) gives the only detailed account of the involved bibliography of the several successive part-issues, and distinguishes seven issues (the last three by other publishers who had taken over Bickham's plates)

This is a copy of his B(1) - see The Library 1946/7, p. 247 - the first complete edition, part-issue (the first part issue, Muir A, was never completed). The 4 leaves of Part XXII, which was issued out of series, are here found after Part I.

To my much Honoured, and very worthy Subscribers.

Gentlemen and Ladies,

Tho' it must be Acknowledged that there is already extant a large Variety of Copy-Books, and several of them executed by very Able and Accurate Penmen; Yet, I think, I may venture to assert without Vanity, that None of them are so Copious, so Universally Useful, or Adorn'd, in so fine & beautiful a Manner, as the following Composition.

This being the Last Essay, in all probability, that I shall make of so extensive a Nature; I shall use my utmost Art and Industry to make it the best, and most complete: And I presume No One will doubt of my Veracity in this particular, that considers the Terms of my Proposal, and that my Encouragement wholly depends on the Merit of the Performance.

As therefore 'tis my own Interest to Study to excel, I doubt not but you will continue, as you have begun, to support so expensive an Undertaking, and permit me to usher it into the World, under Your Patronage and Protection: And if I am but so happy as to succeed in so laborious an Attempt, and answer the Expectations of my Friends, I shall despise the idle Cavils of a few envious Criticks, who are ever ready to censure what they never can be able to amend.

That you may All long continue to promote and encourage This, and every other Useful Art, in which the Interest and Glory of your Country is any ways concern'd, and become Shining Examples of Virtue and good Manners, is the Sincere Wish of

THE Universal Penman.

INTRODUCTION.

The Use of the Pen is of so great Importance to Mankind in general, and so indispensably necessary for the Man of Business, that I think it needless to make any Apology for the Publication of this Work.

However, since something may be expected, by way of Preface, to a Book so Useful and Entertaining; I shall take the Liberty to transcribe y^e^ Thoughts of a very ingenious Author on this Occasion; which I imagine will not only be instructive, but also very applicable to my present Undertaking.

WRITING is the first Step, and Essential in furnishing out the Man of Business. And this Qualification is more excellent, as 'tis more useful in Business, and beautiful to the Eye, & may not improperly be consider'd in two Respects, as it proceeds from the Eye and the Hand; From the one, we have Size and Proportion; From the other, Boldness and Freedom. For as the Exactness of the Eye fixes the Heights and Distances; so the Motion of the Joints, and Position of the Hand, determine the black and fine Strokes, and give the same Inclination and Likeness in the Standing & Turn of the Letters.

But, in Order to write well, there must be just Rules given, and much Practice to put 'em in Execution. Plain, Strong, and neat Writing, as it best answers the Design for Use and Beauty; so it has most obtain'd among Men of Business. A full, free, open Letter, struck at once, as it discovers more of Nature, so it gives a Masterly Beauty to the Writing; to which may be added such ornamental

Turns

INTRODUCTION.

Turns of the Pen, as seem rather design'd to fill up Vacancies on the Paper, than studiously compos'd to adorn the Piece. In Flourishing the Fancy would be so Luxuriant, was it not corrected by the Judgment, as almost to destroy the End of Writing; as Airs in Musick, when too often repeated, or too long or too variously performed, disorder the Harmony of a just Composure.

But, as above, if Usefulness and Beauty are the Excellencies of Writing; that which will, with the greatest Facility, contribute to these, is the best Method of Teaching. Supposing, therefore, the Make and Proportion of the Letters and Joinings to be once well fixed and understood, and then if the Learner is us'd to copy the great Variety of Examples which are here produc'd, his Hand will grow confirm'd in an Aptitude and Readiness, which will insensibly arrive at Perfection and Dispatch; and give in Writing, what we admire in fine Gentlemen; an Easiness of Gesture, and disengag'd Air, which is imperceptibly caught from frequently conversing with the Polite and Well-bred.

DRAWING is another necessary Qualification, and therefore I have attempted to make the Decorations of this Work fit for the imitation of those, whose Genius prompts them to the Study of that Art.

But as Writing is the most Useful Accomplishment of y^e two, I have given a larger Number of Specimens for that purpose; Exhibited in Precepts Divine and Moral, with many Examples in Trade and Business.

And as the Whole is compleated, through y^e friendly Assistance of several Eminent Penmen, and Engrav'd with the greatest Care and Exactness; I make no doubt but it will meet with a favourable Reception from the Publick; & that I my Self shall be excus'd for attempting so Universal a Performance.

LETTERS.

By the Assistance of Letters the Memory of past Things is preserved, and the Foreknowledge of some Things to come is Revealed: By Them even Things Inanimate Instruct and Admonish Us.

Inscription is the Language of a Tomb;
Art can by Letters speak when Nature's dumb.

Letters annihilate intervenient Time, and make past Ages present; So that the Living and Dead converse together, and we this Advantage, that we may learn from the Admonitions of the Dead, that which the Living dare not, or care not to say to Us.

Words are thoſe Channels, by which the Knowledge of Things is convey'd to our Understandings: And therefore upon a right Apprehension of them depends ye Rectitude of our Notions; and in order to form our Judgments right, they must be understood in their proper Meaning, and us'd in their true Senſe, either in Writing or Speaking.

On the Art of Writing.

Hail mistick Art! which Men like Angels taught,
To speak to Eyes, and paint unbody'd Thought!
Tho' Deaf, and Dumb; blest Skill, reliev'd by Thee,
We make one Sense perform the Task of Three.
We see, we hear, we touch the Head and Heart,
And take, or give, what each but yields in part.
With the hard Laws of Distance we dispence,
And without Sound, apart, commune in Sense;
View, tho' confin'd; nay, rule this Earthly Ball,
And travel o'er the wide expanded All.
Dead Letters, thus with Living Notions fraught,
Prove to the Soul the Telescopes of Thought;
To Mortal Life a deathless Witness give;
And bid all Deeds and Titles last, and live.
In scanty Life, Eternity we taste;
View the First Ages, and inform the Last.
Arts, Hist'ry, Laws, we purchase with a Look,
And keep, like Fate, all Nature in a Book.

Josephus Champion Scripsit.

READING and WRITING.

By the Arts of Reading and Writing, we can sit at Home and acquaint our selves with what is done in all the distant Parts of the World, & find what our Fathers did long ago in the first Ages of Mankind.

The Art of Letters does, as it were, revive all the past Ages of Men and sets them at once upon the Stage; and brings all the Nations from afar, and gives them, as it were, a general Interview; so that the most distant Ages of Mankind may converse together, and grow into Acquaintance.

Among all the Inventions of Mankind none is more Admirable, necessary, useful or convenient than Writing, by which a Man is enabled to delineate his very Conceptions, communicate his Mind without Speaking, and correspond with his Friend at ten thousand Miles distance, and all by the Contrivance of twenty four Letters. Viz.t Aabc, &c.

To Mr. Geo. Bickham.

Sir,

If any thing could excite me to think well of my own Judgement in the Art of Penmanship, it would be your desiring me to Assist you in the Writing some part of yo.r New Copy Book.

As your Design is both Laudable & Useful, I willingly embraced the Opportunity of serving You, and have therefore Sent you a Page on the Art of Writing, & as you Approve of that I shall be ready to do you Farther Service

Nothing, in my Opinion, can be more Advantageous to the Publick than the Work you are at present engaged in, and that your Labours may meet with Encouragement equal to your Merit is the Hearty Desire of

Sir,

In the politest Age we seldom find
The Man of Business with the Artist join'd;
But in Your Genius both these Talents meet,
To make the happy Character complete.
Thus rightly Form'd; such useful Beauties Shine
Thro' all Your Works; what Pen can equal thine?
There flowing Strokes in true Proportion rise;
They charm the Sense, and captivate the Eyes.
Soft, bold, and free, Your Manuscripts still please,
Where all is Masterly, and wrote with Ease;
And ev'ry One, in the next Page, may view
A Curious Specimen, Perform'd by You.
There I, with great Ambition, have Essay'd
My utmost Skill, and all my Art display'd;
Proud if some Fame, with You, I might assume,
By my Engraving Your fine Vive la plume.

To please Mankind, and raise a lasting Name.

Command of Hand.

Sure in its Slight, tho' swift as Angels Wings;
The Pen commands; & the bold Figure springs:
While the slow Pencil's discontinu'd Lace,
Repeats the Stroke; but cannot reach the Grace.

How justly Bold, when in some Master's Hand,
The Pen at once joins Freedom with Command!
With Softness strong, with Ornaments not vain;
Loose with Proportion, and with Neatness plain;
Not swell'd, yet full, compleat in evry Part;
And Artful most, when not affecting Art.

O'er Virgin-Paper when the Hand we trace,
How new, how Free, how perfect evry Grace!
So smooth, so fine, the nimble strokes we view,
Like Trips of Fairies o'er the Morning-Dew.

EDUCATION.

A human Soul without Education is like Marble in the Quarry, which shews none of its inherent Beauties till the skill of the Polisher fetches out the Colours, and discovers the ornamental Clouds that run thro' the body of it. Education draws out to View every latent Virtue w.ch without such Helps would never be able to make their Appearance.

We rise above one another in y^e^ Esteem of y^e^ World by different degrees of Perfection, proportion'd to the Want or Advantage of a liberal Education.

The care of Education is a work of y^e^ highest Moment, as all y^e^ Advantages or Miscarriges of a Man's Life, are in a great Measure dependent on it. 'Tis y^e^ Duty therefore of Parents to infuse into y^e^ untainted Youth early notices of Justice & Honour, that so y^e^ posible Advantages of good Parts may not take an Evil turn, or be perverted to base & unworthy purposes.

William Leekey scrip.

Education.

Children, like tender Oziers, take the Bow,
And as they first are fashion'd always grow:
For what we learn in Youth, to that alone
In Age we are by second Nature prone.

All Youth, set right at first, with Eaſe go on,
And each new taſk is with new pleaſure done;
But if neglected till they grow in Years,
And each fond Mother, her dear Darling ſpares,
Error becomes habitual, and you'll find,
'Tis then hard Labour to reform the Mind.

Youth like the ſoften'd Wax with eaſe will take Thoſe Images that firſt Impreſſions make
If thoſe are fair their Lives will all be bright
If foul they'll cloud it all with Shades of night.

Willington Clark ſcrip.t

Education

'Tis Education alone that can mend Nature, & improve the Talents of that great Benefactress. Has she given us a competent Share of Sense and Reason? Education carries up our Sense to Wisdom, and our Reason to Judgment. Ab.

Education is ye Learned Alchymist that purges away our Drofs & fublimes our Difpofitions: That reads us Lectures of Use upon every turning and winding of our Actions; informs us in our general and particular Duties; teaches us to worship Heaven, to honour our Parents, to reverence our Elders, to fubject our felves to the Laws, to obey our Governors, to love our Friends, to cherish our Wives, be affectionate to our Children, and not injurious to any.

Education ſtrikes in with Philoſophy in many leſſons; teaches us not to be over-joy'd in Proſperity, nor too much dejected in Adverſity; not to be diſſolute in our Pleaſures, nor in our Anger to be tranſported to a Fury that is Brutal. Wxyz

ADVICE.

Learn to contemn all praiſe betimes;
For flattery's the nurſe of Crimes.

Seek you to train your favrite Boy?
Each Caution, ev'ry Care employ;
And ere you venture to confide,
Let his Preceptor's heart be try'd;
Weigh well his manners, life, & Scope,
On theſe depends thy future hope.

With early Virtue plant thy breaſt,
The ſpecious Arts of Vice detest.

W. Clark ſcrip.t

VIRTUE.

As Virtue in general is of an amiable and lovely Nature, there are some particular kinds of it which are more so than others, and these are such as dispose us to do good to Mankind. Temperance and Abstinence, Faith & Devotion, are in themselves perhaps as laudable as any other Virtues, but those wch make a Man popular & belovd, are Justice, Charity, Munificence, and in short, all ye good qualities yt render us beneficial to each other.

The two great ornaments of Virtue, which shew her in the most advantagious View, and make her altogether lovely, are Chearfulness and Good Nature. These generally go together, as a Man cannot be agreeable to others who is not easy within himself. These are both very requisite in a virtuous mind, to keep out Melancholy from the many serious Thoughts it is ingaged in, and to hinder it's natural hatred of Vice from sowring into Severity and Censoriousness.

W. Clark scrip.

Virtue.

With glittering Beams & native Glory bright,
Virtue, nor Darkneſs dreads, nor covets Light;
But from her ſettled Orb looks calmly down,
On Life or Death, a Priſon or a Crown.

Virtue's the chiefeſt Beauty of the Mind,
The noblest Ornament of Human-kind;
Virtue's our Safeguard, & our guiding Star,
That ſtirs up Reaſon, when our Senſes err.

True Sons of Virtue, mean Repulse diſdain,
Nor does their ſhining Honour ever ſtain;
Their glorious Minds are ſo ſecurely great,
They neither ſwell, nor ſink at turns of Fate.

Wm Leekey Scrip.t

Virtus.

Virtue's the Friend of Life, the Soul of Health;
The poor man's Comfort, & the rich man's Wealth.

Virtue & Friendship above all things purchase to Men Love and Good-will.

Virtue has Secret Charms which all Men Love,
And those that do not choose her, yet approve.

Virtue and Arts are attained by frequent Practice & Perseverance.

By Virtuous Use thy Life and Manners frame,
Manly and Simply pure, and free From Blame.

J. Champion Scrip.t
1733.

Wisdom, and Beauty.

There is nothing which gives one so pleasing a Prospect of human Nature, as the Contemplation of Wisdom and Beauty: The latter is peculiar to that Sex which is therefore called Fair, & when both meet in the same Person the Character is lovely and desirable.

Beauty, like Ice, our Footing does betray:
Who can tread ſure on the ſmooth ſlipp'ry Way?
Pleas'd with the Paſsage we ſlide ſwiftly on,
And ſee the Dangers which we cannot ſhun.

Wisdom is glorious and never fadeth away, yet she is easily seen of them that love her, and found of such as seek her: For she goeth about seeking such as are worthy of her, sheweth her self favourably unto them in the Way, and meeteth them in every Thought.

W. Leekey ſcrip^{t}.

For if that which is done away was glorious, much more that which remaineth is glorious. II. Cor. chap. 3. V. 11.

RELIGION.

Moral Virtues themselves without Religion are but cold, lifeless & insipid: 'Tis that which opens the Mind to great Conceptions, fills it with the most sublime Ideas, and warms the Soul more than sensual Pleasures.

Glory of God, Man's Good, are the fix'd Poles,
On which the Sphere of true Religion rolls.

Religion better qualifies all Sorts of Men, and makes them in publick Affairs the more serviceable; Governors apter to rule w^th^ Conscience, and Inferiors for Conscience sake more willing to obey.

W. CLARK SCRIPSIT.

Religion

Hail! gentle PIETY! unmingled joy!
Whose fulneſs Satisfies, but neér can cloy!
Spread thy ſoft Wings o'er my devoted breast,
And ſettle there an everlasting Gueſt.

Let homage be to pure Religion paid,
Seek her Protection, and implore her Aid;
That ſhe may keep thy Soul from harm ſecure,
And turn thy Footſteps from the Harlot's door.
Who with curs'd Charms lures the unwary in,
And ſooths with Flattery their ſouls to Sin.

Religion prompts us to a Future State;
The laſt appeal from Fortune & from Fate:
Where God's all-righteous way will be declar'd,
The bad meet Puniſhment, the good Reward.

Joſeph Champion Scripſit.

Religion.

The commands of Heaven, in the observance of which Religion principally consists, are very plain & obvious to the meanest Understanding; and are nothing else but Exhortations to Love, and directions for social Happiness.

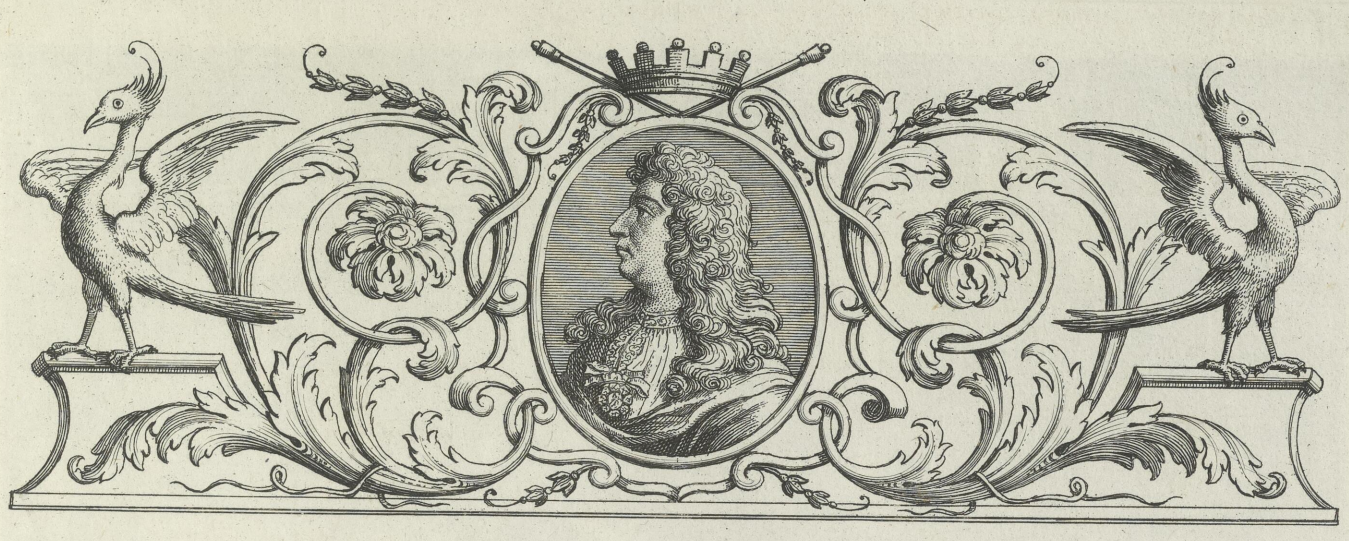

Great is the steadiness of Soul and Thought,
By Reason bred, and by Religion taught:
Which like a Rock amidst ye stormy Waves,
Unmov'd remains, and all Afflictions braves.

Divine worship is that which distinguishes us from the Brutal part of the creation, more than that ray of the Divinity our reason it self: For they frequently discover some Affinity to the one, but in no one Action whatsoever betray the least Resemblance to the other.

THEODORICK,

TO BOETIUS.

You have so well improv'd your Self Abroad in the Athenian Schools, & so familiariz'd the Roman Student with the Grecian Tutors, that their Learning is, by your Means, become Naturaliz'd at Rome: whatever the Athenians had Monopoliz'd you have made Common to the Romans, who are beholden to your laborious Translations, that they can now Read the Musick of Pythagoras, the Astronomy of Ptolemy, the Arithmetick of Nicomachus, the Geometry of Euclid, the Divinity of Plato, the Logick of Aristotle, and the Mechanicks of Archimedes in the Latin Tongue: All which you have adorn'd with so much beauty of Language, & illustrated with so great propriety of Expression, that even the Original Authors, did they equally Understand both Idioms, would prefer your Work to their own.

George Bickham, Fecit. 1734.

LEARNING.

The Design of Learning, is either to render a Man an agreeable Companion to himself, and teach him to support Solitude with Pleasure; or, if he is not born to an Estate, to supply that Defect, and furnish him with the Means of getting one.

Look cautious round; your Genius nicely know,
And mark how far its utmost Stretch will go.

Nobility, Riches, State, and Supremacy can procure us a customary Respect, & make us the Idols of an unthinking Croud; but Knowledge and Learning alone recommend us to the Love of those in a superior Class, who admire more the Merits of our Understanding, than the Advantages of our Birth & Fortune.

Samuel Vaux scrip.t

Learning.

How pleasant, and how sweet it is, to see
Riches and Grandeur mixt with Decency!
But much more Sweet, thy labring Steps to guide
To Vertue's heights, with Wisdom well supply'd,
And all the Magazines of Learning fortify'd.

A little Learning is a dangerous Thing,
Drink deep, or taste not the Pierian Spring.
There shallow Draughts intoxicate ỹ Brain,
And drinking largely sobers us again.

Fir'd with the Charms fair Science does impart,
In fearless Youth we tempt the Heights of Art.
While from the bounded Level of our Mind,
Short Views we take, nor see the Lengths behind,
But more advanc'd behold with strange Surprize,
New, distant Scenes of endless Science rise.

Willington Clark, Scrip.

THE Penmans Advice

To Young Gentlemen.

Ye British Youths, our Ages Hope & Care,
You whom the next may polish, or impair;
Learn by the Pen those Talents to insure,
That fix evn Fortune, & from Want secure;
You with a dash in time may drain a Mine,
And deal the Fate of Empires in a Line;
For Ease and Wealth, for Honour & Delight,
Your Hands yo.r Warrant, if you well can Write.
"True ease in Writing comes from Art, not Chance;
"As those move easiest, who have learnd to Dance.

To Young Ladies.

Ye springing Fair, whom gentle Minds incline,
To all that's curious, innocent, and fine!
With Admiration in your Works are read
The various Textures of the twining Thread.
Then let the Fingers, whose unrivall'd Skill,
Exalts the Needle, grace the Noble Quill.
An artless Scrawl y.e blushing Scribler shames;
All shoud be Fair that Beauteous Woman frames.
Strive to excell, with Ease the Pen will move,
And pretty Lines add Charms to infant Love.

The whole Universe is your Library: Authors, Converſation, & Remarks upon them, are your best Tutors.

There is not a wider Difference betwixt Man and Beast than betwixt Man and Man: And to what is this Difference owing, but to the Diſtinguiſht Improvements of the Mind by Study and Meditation? without these Helps, no Diſtinction of Faculties will render us Conſpicuous. 1734.

Study to be Eminent. Mediocrity is below a brave Soul: Eminency in Knowledge conjunct with equal Goodneſs will be to you of all others the moſt commendable Diſtinction. May. 16.

Study.

Ariſtotle ſays, that to become an able Man in any profeſsion, three things are neceſsary; that is to say, Nature, Study, and Practice.

He moſt improves who Studies with Delight,
And learns ſound Morals whilſt he learns to write.

Make the Study of the ſacred Scriptures your daily Practice, and principal Concern; and embrace the doctrines contained in them, as the Oracles of Heaven, and the Dictates of that Spirit which cannot lie. June 2.

W. Clark ſcripſit.

Knowledge.

Knowledge, softened with Complacency and good-Breeding, will make a Man equally belov'd and admired; but being join'd with a severe and morose Temper, it makes a Man rather fear'd than respected.

From Art and Science true Contentment flow;
For tis a Godlike Attribute to know.

Knowledge is that which next to Virtue truely and essentially raises one Man above another; it finishes one half of the human Soul; it makes Beings pleasant to us; it fills the Mind with entertaining Viens, & administers to it a perpetual Series of Gratifications; it gives ease to Solitude, & a gracefulness to Retirement; it fills a Publick Station with Suitable Abilities, & adds a Luster to those who are in possession of them.

William Brooks Scrip.

KNOWLEDGE.

In Nature's Search we to the Cause advance;
But Knowledge must inform our Ignorance:
To judge of Arts we must their Objects know,
And from the Current to the Spring we go.

Merit should be for ever plac'd
In Knowledge, Judgment, Wit, & Taste;
For these, 'tis own'd, without dispute,
Alone distinguish Man from Brute.

Knowledge, by Time, advances slow and wise,
Turns ev'ry where its deep-discerning Eyes;
Sees What befel, and What may yet befal;
Concludes from Both, & best provides for All.

And Preaches Labour, gathring all She can,

Industry

So true to Industry, and so zealous for Employment have wise Men been in all Ages, that they have look'd upon Idleness and Inactivity as Crimes of a heinous Nature, and those who have search'd into Human Nature observe, that nothing so much shews the Nobleness of Soul, as y^t it's Felicity consists in Action.

Industry is needful in every condition of Life; we cannot without it act in any State decently, or usefully, either to the benefit or satisfaction of others, or to our own Advantage or Comfort; it is requisit for procuring Ease Sweet and Satisfaction to the Mind, attended with a good Conscience, sweetens our Enjoyments, and seasons our Attainments, is a Guard to Innocence and a Bar to Temptations.

THE Writing Master's

INVITATION, AND INSTRUCTION.

Come Youths this Charming Sight behold!—
With Lawrel Plum'd, a Pen of Gold!—
If You would win this Glorious Prize,—
Do as Your Master shall Advise;—
Till You, from Learners, Masters grown,
Make both the Bays & Gold your Own.

Come Listen Youths, and I'll Display
To this Rare Art a Certain Way.—
He that in Writing would Improve,—
Must first with Writing fall in Love;
For True Love for True Pains will call,
And that's the Charm that Conquers All.

Three things bear mighty Sway with Men,
The Sword, the Scepter, and the P E N;

Who can the leaſt of theſe Command,
In the Firſt Rank of Fame will Stand.

Honesty.

An Honest Mind, safely alone,
May travel thro' the burning Zone;
Or thro' the deepest Scythian Snows,
Or where the fam'd Hydaspes flows.

Honesty, could it be discerned by our naked Eye, would, in the Opinion of Plato, win us to an Inexpressible Love of Wisdom.

Convince the World that you're devout, & true,
Be just in all you Say, and all you Do;
Whatever be your Birth, you're sure to be
A Peer of the first Magnitude to Me.

J. Oldfield scripsit.

HONESTY.

An honest Man's Dealings are square and above-board; he discovers the Faults of what he would sell; restores the over-seen Gain of a false Reckoning; and esteems a Bribe venemous, tho' it comes gilded over with the Colour of Gratuity.

Short is the Date in which ill Acts prevail,
But Honesty's a Rock can never fail.

The Cheeks of an honest Man are never stain'd with the Blushes of Recantation; nor does his Tongue faulter to make good a Lye, with the secret Gloſses of a double or reserv'd Sense. His fair Conditions are without Diſsembling, and he loves Actions above words; hates falshood worse than Death; is a faithful Client of Truth and no Man's Enemy.

John Day ſcrip.

Discretion.

Discretion does not only shew it self in Words, but in all the Circumstances of Action, and is like an Under-Agent of Providence to guide and direct us in the ordinary Concerns of Life.

If we look into particular Communities & Divisions of Men, we may observe that it is the Discreet Man not the Witty, nor the Learned, nor the Brave who guides the Conversation, and gives Measures to the Society.

There are many shining Qualities in the Minds of Men, but there is none so useful as Discretion; it is this indeed which gives a Value to all the rest, which sets them at Work in their proper Times and Places, & turns them to the Advantage of the Person who is possessed of them.

Gabriel Brooks, scripsit.

Falshood.

Whatsoever Convenience may be thought to be in Falshood and Diſsimulation, it is soon over; but the Inconvenience of it is perpetual, because it brings a Man under an everlasting Jealousy and Suspicion; so that he is not believ'd when he speaks Truth, nor trusted when, perhaps, he means Honestly.

Let Justice o'er thy Word and Deed preside;
And Falshood, shun as a Deceitful Guide.

An Untruth in Discourse is a Disagreement between the Speech and the Mind of the Speaker. When one thing is Declar'd and another Meant, words are no Image of the Thoughts: it makes the Marks of Speech insignificant, and the Meaning of one Man unintelligible to another; this is a breach of the Article of Commerce, and an Invasion upon the Rights of Society.

Swearing.

MODESTY.

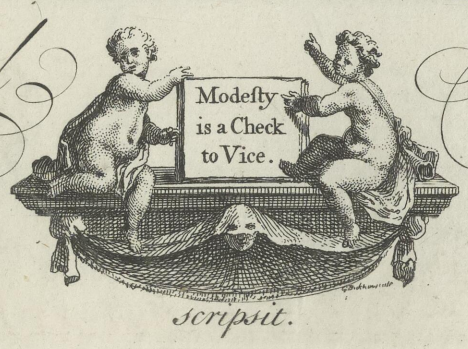

A just and reasonable Modesty does not only recommend Eloquence, but sets off evry great Talent which a Man can be possessed of. It heightens all the Virtues wch it accompanies, like the Shades in Paintings, it raises and rounds every Figure, and makes the Colours more beautiful tho' not so glaring as they would be without it.

Immodest Words admit of no defence,
For want of Decency is want of Sense.

Modesty is not only an Ornament, but also a Guard to Virtue. It is a kind of quick and delicate feeling in the Soul, which makes her shrink and withdraw her self from every thing that has Danger in it. It is such an exquisite Sensibility as waens her to shun ye first appearance of every thing which is hurtful.

In modest Actions there are certain Rules,

Good-Nature.

Indulgence soon takes with a noble Mind,
Who can be harsh that sees another kind?
Mildneſs and Temper have a Force divine,
To make ev'n Paſsion with their Nature join.

Love, raisd on Beauty, will like that decay,
Our Hearts may bear its slender Chains a Day,
As flowry Bands in Wantonneſs are worn,
A Morning's Pleasure, and at Evining torn;
Good-Nature binds more easy, yet more strong
The willing Heart, and only holds it long.

Good-Nature.

Good-Nature is the Foundation of all Virtues, either Religious or Civil; Good-Nature, which is Friendship between Man and Man, good Breeding in Courts, Charity in Religion and the true Spring of all Beneficence in General.

Good-Nature and good Sense must ever join;
To err is Human; to Forgive, Divine.

Good Sense and Good-Nature are never separated, tho' the ignorant World has thought otherwise; Good-Nature, by which I mean Beneficence and Candor, is the Product of right Reason, which of necessity will give allowance to the Failings of others, by considering that there is nothing perfect in Mankind.

Keep no Company with a Man who is given to Detraction; to hear him Patiently, and shew a Countenance of Encouragement is to partake of his Guilt, and prompt him to a Continuance in that Vice, which all good Men should shun him for.

There's a Lust in Man no Charm can tame,
Of loudly publishing his Neighbour's Shame;
On Eagles Wings Immortal Scandals flie,
While Virtuous Actions are but born and die.

A Simile, or Comparison.

Dear Thomas didst thou never pop
Thy Head into a Tinman's Shop;
There, Thomas, didst thou never see,

The Cage, as either Side turn'd up,
Striking a Ring of Bells a-top?
Mov'd in the Orb, pleas'd wth. ye Chimes,
The foolish Creature thinks he climbs;
But here or there, turn Wood or Wire,
He never gets two Inches higher.
So fares it with those merry Blades,
That frisk it under Pindus Shades;
In noble Songs, and lofty Odes,
They tread on Stars, & talk with Gods:
Still dancing in an airy Round,
Still pleas'd with their own Verses sound;
Brought back, how fast so e'er they go;
Always aspiring, always low.

'Tis great Delight to laugh at some Men's Ways;
But a much greater to give Merit Praise.

Criticism.

One great Mark, by which you may discover a Critick who has neither Taste nor Learning, is this, that he seldom ventures to praise any Passage in an Author which has not been before received and applauded by the Publick; and that his Criticism turns wholly upon little Faults and Errors. This part of a Critick is so very easie to succeed in, that we find every ordinary Reader, upon y^e^ publishing of a new Poem, has Wit & Ill-nature enough to turn several Passages of it into Ridicule, and very often in y^e^ right Place.

Errors, like Straws, upon the Surface flow;
He who would search for Pearls must dive below.

A true Critick ought to dwell rather upon Excellencies than Imperfections, to discover the concealed Beauties of a Writer, and communicate to the World such things as are worth their Observation. The most exquisite Words and finest Strokes of an Author, are those which very often appear the most doubtful and exceptionable, to a Man who wants a Relish for polite Learning; and they are these, w^ch^ a sour undistinguishing Critick generally attacks with y^e^ greatest Violence.

E. Austin Scripsit.

Criticism.

In Poets, as true Genius is but rare,
True Taste as seldom is the Critick's share;
Both must alike from Heav'n derive their Light;
These born to judge, as well as those to write.

Let such teach others, who themselves excel,
And censure freely, who have written well.
Authors are partial to their Wit, 'tis true;
But are not Criticks to their Judgment too?

A perfect Judge will read each Work of Wit,
With the same Spirit that it's Author Writ;
Survey the Whole; nor seek slight Faults to find,
Where Nature moves, & Rapture warms y^e^ Mind.

A famous Critick, says he, having gathered together all the Faults of an Eminent Poet, made a present of them to Apollo, who received them very graciously, and resolved to make the Author a suitable Return for the Trouble he had been at in collecting them. In order to this, he set before him a Sack of Wheat, as it had been just threshed out of the Sheaf. He then bid him pick out the Chaff from among the Corn, & lay it aside by it self. The Critick applied himself to the Task with great Industry and Pleasure, and after having made the due Separation, was presented by Apollo with the Chaff for his Pains.

Laughter.

Man is the merriest Species of the Creation, all above and below him are Serious. He sees things in a different Light from other Beings, & finds his Mirth rising from Objects that perhaps cause something like Pity or Displeasure in higher Natures. Laughter is indeed a very good Counterpoise to the Spleen; and seems but reasonable that we should be capable of receiving Joy from what is no real Good to us, since we can receive Grief from what is no real Evil. April, 11.

Laughter, while it lasts, slackens & unbraces the Mind, weakens the Faculties, and causes a kind of Remissness and Dissolution in all the Powers of the Soul; & thus far it may be look'd upon as a Weakness in the Composition of human nature. But if we consider the frequent Reliefs that we receive from it, & how often it breaks ỹ Gloom which is apt to depress the Mind, and damp our Spirits with transient unexpected gleams of Joy, one would take care not to grow too Wise for so great a Pleasure of Life.

Decency.

The Comelineſs of Perſon and Decency of Behaviour, adds infinite Weight to what is pronounc'd by any one. 'Tis the want of this that often makes the Rebukes and Advice of old rigid Perſons of no Effect, and leave a diſpleaſure in the Minds of thoſe they are directed to. But Youth and Beauty, if accompanied with a graceful and becoming Severity, is of mighty force to raiſe, even in the moſt Profligate, a Senſe of Shame. In Milton the Devil is never deſcrib'd aſham'd but once, & that at the Rebuke of a Beauteous Angel.

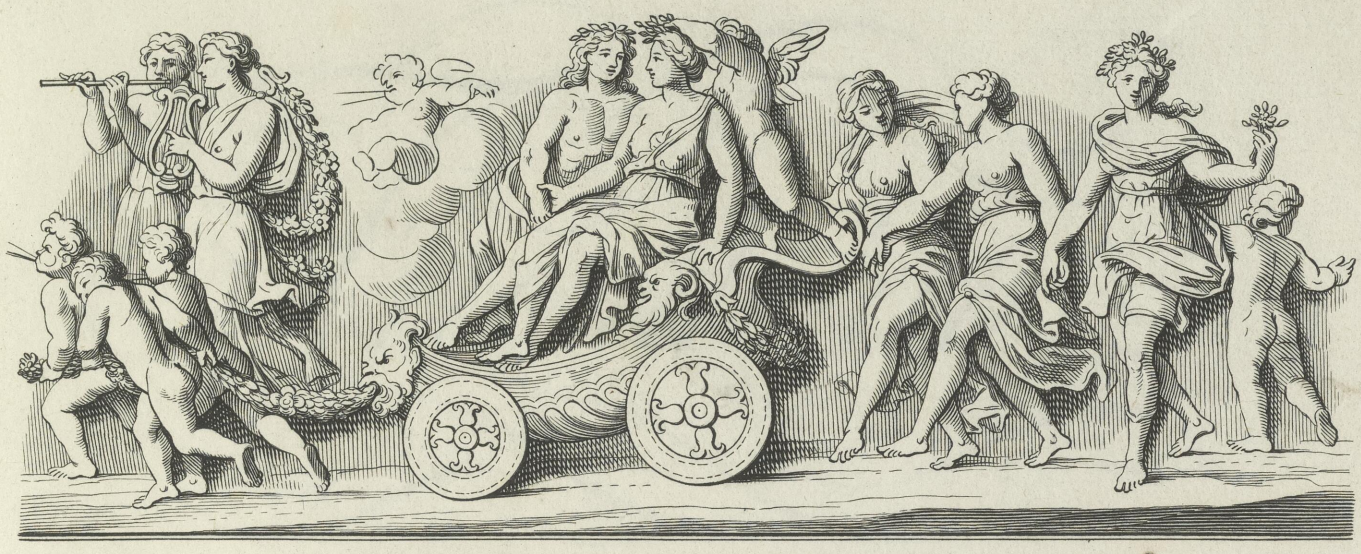

So ſpake the Cherub, and his grave Rebuke
Severe in youthful Beauty, added Grace
Invincible: Abaſh'd the Devil ſtood,
And felt how awful Goodneſs is, and ſaw
Virtue in her own Shape how lovely! ſaw, and Pin'd his Loſs.

Without Decency Valour would degenerate into Brutality, Learning into Pedantry, and the genteeleſt Demeanour into Affectation. Even Religion it ſelf, unleſs Decency be the Handmaid which waits upon her, is apt to make People appear guilty of Sourneſs and ill Humour: But this ſhews Virtue in her firſt original Form, adds a Comelineſs to Religion, and gives its Profeſſors the juſteſt Title to the beauty of Holineſs.

Friendship

All other things desirable in Life are good as appropriated to some particular: Money serves our Uses, Riches procure us Respect, Honours gain us Applause, Pleasures contribute to our Enjoyment of the World; Health secures us against Pain, and gives us the true use of our Limbs. Friendship contains in it a number of Conveniencies; it is of Service in all Exigencies and Circumstances of Life; is to be excluded from no Place, or Occasion, can never be Unseasonable, never Troublesome.

Tell me, ye knowing, and descerning Few,
Where I may find a Friend who's firm & true:
Who dares stand by me, when in deep distress,
And then his Love & Friendship most express:
Who by a secret Sympathy can share
My Joy, my Grief, my Misery, my Care;
He must be prudent, faithful, just & Wise
Who can, to such a pitch of Friendship, rise.

A Faithful Friend is a strong Defence; and he that hath found such an one, hath found a Treasure. Nothing doth countervail a Faithful Friend, and his excellency is unvaluable. A Faithful Friend is the Medicine of Life; and they that Fear the Lord shall find him. Whoso feareth the Lord shall direct his Friendship aright; for as he is, so shall his Neighbour (that is his Friend) be also.

LOVE

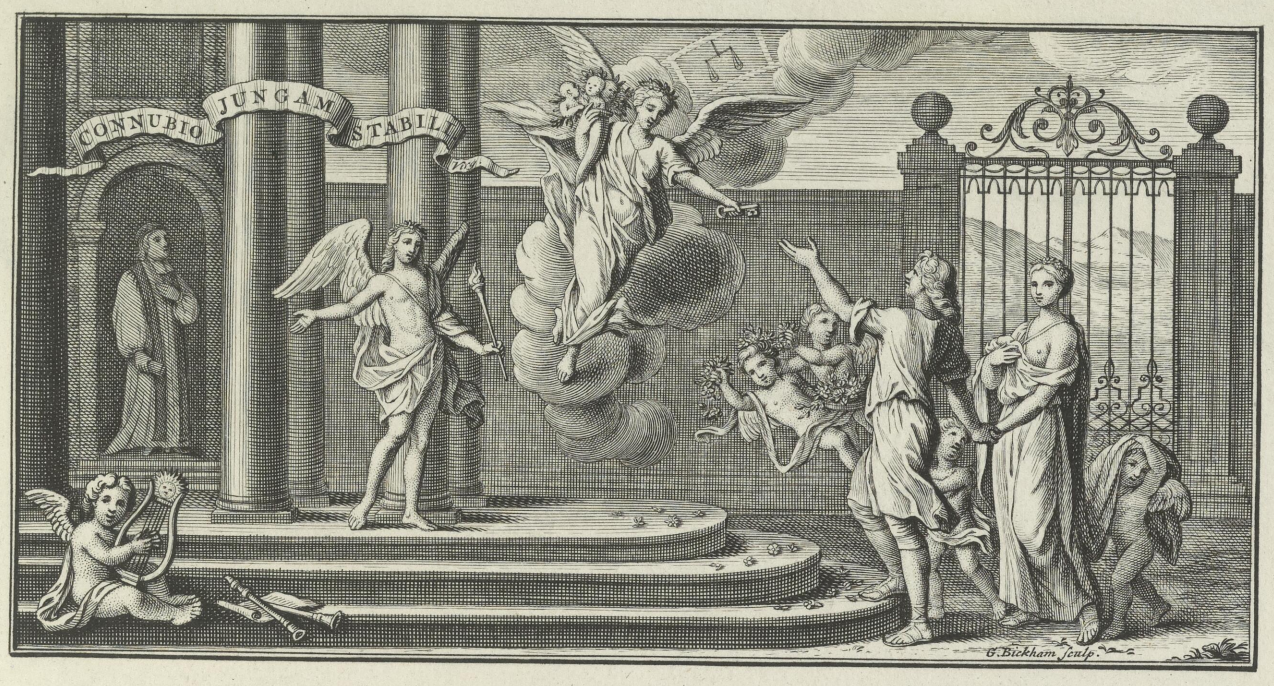

Love first invented Verse, and form'd the Rhyme,
The Motion measur'd, harmoniz'd the Chime.
To lib'ral Arts enlarg'd the Narrow-Soul'd,
Soften'd the fierce, and made the Coward bold.

Anger, in hasty Words or Blows,
It self discharges on our Foes;
And Sorrow too finds some Relief
In Tears, which wait upon our Grief:
So ev'ry Passion, but fond Love,
Unto its own Redress does move:

But that alone the Wretch inclines
To what prevents his own Designs;
Makes him lament, and sigh, and weep,
Disorder'd, tremble, fawn, and creep;
Postures which render him despis'd,
Where he endeavours to be priz'd.

In Love what Use of Prudence can there be?
More perfect I, and yet more pow'rful She!
One Look of her's my Resolution breaks;
Reason it self turns Folly when she speaks.

THE

Wisdom of King Solomon in getting

Great Riches

King Solomon made a Navy of Ships on the Shore of the Red Sea, in the Land of Edom. And Hiram sent in the Navy his Servants, Ship-Men that had Knowledge of the Sea, with the Servants of Solomon. And they came to Ophir, and fetch'd from thence Gold, four hundred and twenty Talents, and brought it to King Solomon. Now the Weight of Gold that came to Solomon in one Year, was six hundred threescore and six Talents of Gold; Besides that he had of the Merchant-Men, and of the Traffick of the Spice-Merchants, and of all the Kings of Arabia, and of the Governours of the Country. And all King Solomon's drinking Vessels were of Gold, and all the Vessels of the House of the Forest of Lebanon were of pure Gold, none were of Silver, it was nothing accounted of in the days of Solomon: For the King had at Sea a Navy of Tharshish, with the Navy of Hiram; once in three Years came the Navy of Tharshish, bringing Gold, and Silver, Ivory, and Apes, and Peacocks. So King Solomon exceeded all the Kings of the Earth for Riches, and for Wisdom. I. Kings Chap. IX, Ver. 26, &c.

'Tis Thou that warm'st the Soldier's Heart.

Yet what Thou art, we thus admire,
For which we labour, pant, aspire,
How shall we learn? of whom enquire?

If mere Delusion of the Mind,
Whence are we seriously inclin'd
To court a Shade, a Breath of Wind?

Or if Thou art a real Good,
How can thy Worth be understood,
Thro' Pain, or Poverty persu'd?

Can all the Wreaths that crown his Head,
Compensate now, to Homer dead,
The living Homer's Want of Bread?

Yet who would not a Beggar be,
To grow as much renown'd as He?

HONOUR.

On poliſh'd Springs, true Men of Honour move,
Free is their Service, and unbought their Love:
When Danger calls, and Honour leads the way,
With Joy they follow, and with Pride obey.

Not all the Threats, or Favours of a Crown,
A Prince's Whiſper, or a Tyrant's Frown;
Can awe the Spirit, or allure the Mind,
Of him who to ſtrict Honour is inclin'd.

Honour! that Spark of the Celeſtial Fire,
That above Nature makes Mankind aſpire,
Ennobles the rude Paſſions of our Frame,
With Thirſt of Glory and Deſire of Fame.

Honour's the Conſcience of an Act well done,
Which gives us Pow'r, our own Deſire to ſhun:
The ſtrong and ſecret Curb of headſtrong Will!
The Self-Reward of Good, and Shame of Ill.

O Honour! frail as Life, thy fellow Flow'r,
Cheriſh'd, and watch'd, and hum'rouſly eſteem'd;
Then worn for ſhort Adornment of an Hour,
And is, when Loſt, no more to be redeem'd!

Honour.

Honour, tho' a different principle from Religion, produces the same effects. The lines of Action, tho' drawn from different parts, terminate in the same point. Religion embraces Virtue, as it is enjoined by the laws of God; Honour, as it is graceful and ornamental to humane Nature.

Honour's a sacred Tie, the Law of Kings,
The noble Mind's distinguishing Perfection,
That aids & strengthens Virtue where it meets her;
And imitates her Actions where she is not.

Bland Script.

HUMILITY.

Humility is the grand Virtue that leads to Contentment; it cuts off the Envy and Malice of Inferiours & Equals, and makes us patiently bear the Insults of Superiours.

As Arrogance, & Conceitedneſs of our own Abilities are very shocking & offensive to Men of Sense and Virtue, we may be sure, they are highly displeasing to that Being who always delights in an humble Mind.

PRIDE.

Of all the Cauſes which conſpire to blind
Man's erring Judgment & miſguide the Mind,
What the weak Head with ſtrongeſt Biaſs rules
Is Pride, the never-failing Vice of Fools. &c

Pride hides a Man's Faults from himſelf, and magnifies them to others.

Whatever Nature has in Worth deny'd,
She gives in large recruits of needful Pride;
For Pride, where Wit fails, ſteps in to our defence,
And fills up all the mighty Void of Senſe.

Pleaſure and Recreation.

Pleasure and Recreation, of one kind or other, are absolutely neceſsary to relieve our Minds and Bodies from too constant Attention and Labour.

In rural Seats the Soul of Pleasure reigns,
The Life of Beauty fills the rural Scenes;
Ev'n Love, if Fame and Poets truth declare,
Drew first its Breathings in a rural Air.

Recreation after Buſineſs is allowable, but he that follows his Pleasure instead of his Buſineſs, shall in a little time have no Buſineſs to follow.

Pleasure.

Too frequent Use does the Delight exclude:—
Pleasure's a Toil when constantly pursu'd.

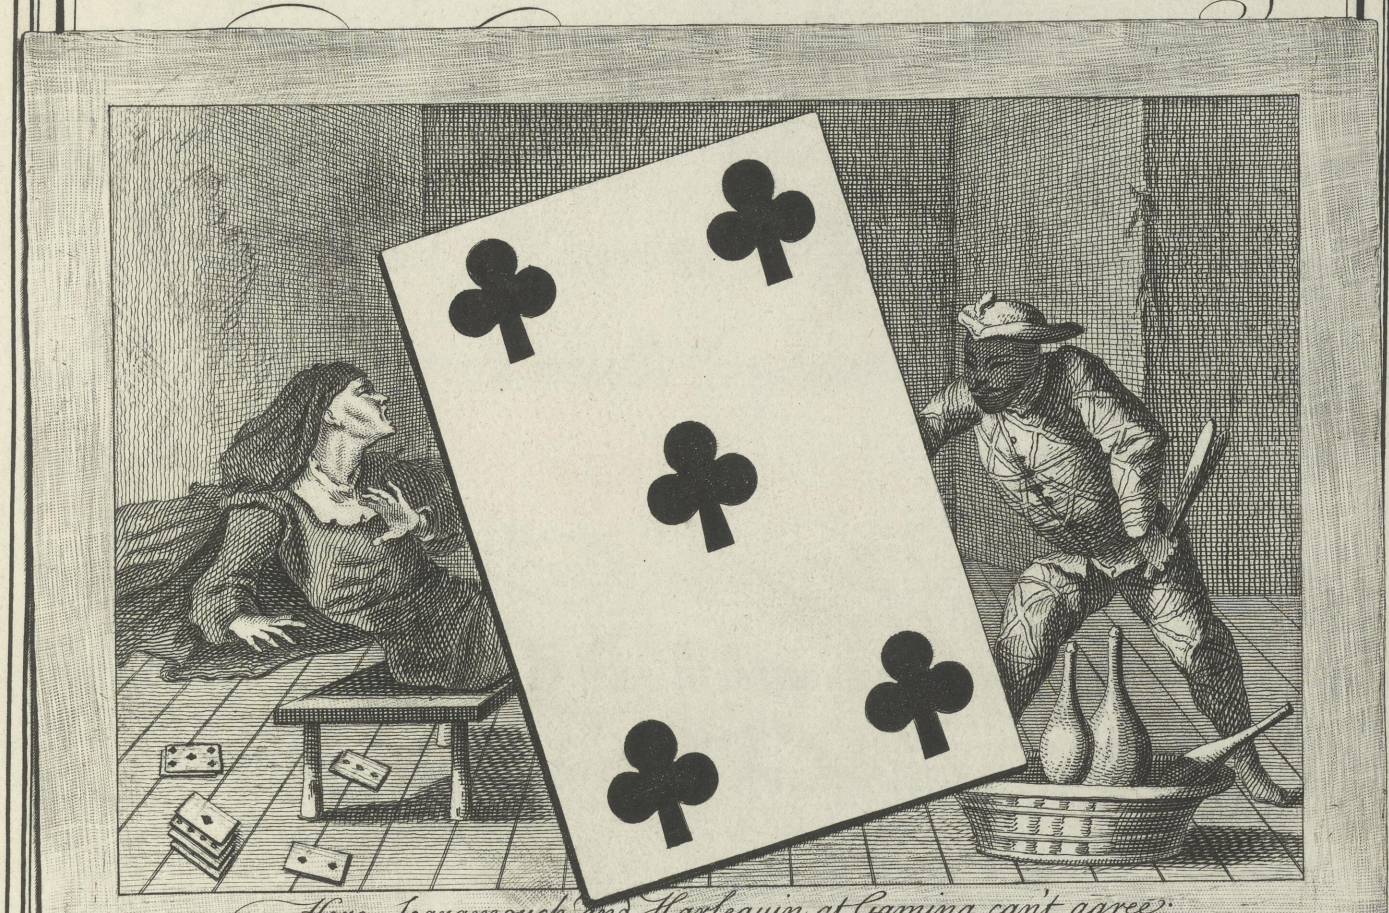

It is a frivilous Pleasure to be the Admiration of a gaping Croud, but to have the Approbation of a good Man in the Cool Reflections of his Closet, is a Gratification worthy an Heroit Spirit: The Applause of the One makes the Head Giddy; but the Attestation of the other makes ỹ heart glad.

Fond airy Pleasure dances in our Eyes,—
And spreads false Images in fair disguise.

W. Clark scrip.

GAMING.

The Diversion of Cards and Dice, however Engaging, are oftner Provocatives to Avarice and Loss of Temper, than mere Recreations and innocent Amusements.

Here Scaramouch and Harlequin, at Gaming can't agree;
They Quarrel, and poor Scaramouch is tumbl'd down you see.

All Cheats at Cards, still gaping for their prey,
Quarrels create; and Mischiefs follow Play:
It loses Time, disturbs ye Mind and Sense,
Whilst Oaths and Lies are oft the consequence,
And Murders, sometimes, follow loss of Pence.

John Bickham Scrip.

Liberality.

Liberality and Kindneſs, Generosity and Benevolence: All the Actions that flow from these Springs will fill us with Pleasure, and make us Dear to Heaven and Acceptable to Mankind.

Liberality should have such a mixture of Prudence, as not to exceed the Ability of the Giver.

Riches in the Hand of a Beneficent Man are a Bleſsing to the Publick: Such a one is a Steward to Providence and the noble Means of correcting the Inequalities of Fortune, of relieving the Miserable, and spreading Happineſs to all that are within the Reach of his Acquaintance.

Musick.

Musick is an insearchable and excel-lent Art, which rejoiceth the Spirits and unloadeth Grief from the heart, and consisteth in time and number.

Musick alone with sudden Charms can bind

Musick.

Hear how Timotheus' various Lays surprize,
And bid alternate Passions fall and rise;
While, at each Change, the Son of Lybian Jove,
Now burns with Glory, and then melts with Love,
Now his fierce Eyes with sparkling Fury glow,
Now Sighs steal out, and Tears begin to flow:
Persians and Greeks like Turns of Nature found,
And the World's Victor stood subdu'd by Sound.

Tell me, O Muse! (for thou, or none, canst tell)
The mystick Pow'rs that in soft Numbers dwell.
At first a various unform'd hint we find,
Rise in some Godlike Poet's fertile Mind,
Till all the parts and Words their Places take;
And with just Marches, Verse & Musick make.

Musick.

Musick has Charms to sooth a savage Breast,
To soften Rocks, and bend a knotted Oak;
I've read that Things inanimate have mov'd,
And, as with living Souls, have been inform'd
By magick Numbers, and perfuasive Sound.

The breathing Flutes soft Notes are heard around,
And the shrill Trumpets mix their silver Sound.
The vaulted Roofs with echoing Musick ring;
Touching the vocal Stops, & trembling String.

The Mind to Virtue is by Verse subdu'd;
And the true Poet is a Publick Good.
This Britain feels, while, by your Lines inspir'd,
Her Free-born Sons to glorious Thoughts are fir'd.
In Rome had you espous'd the vanquish'd Cause,
Enflam'd her Senate, and upheld her Laws;
Your Manly Scenes had Liberty restor'd,
And giv'n the just Success to Cato's Sword:

POETRY

Poetry has had the general Suffrage of all Ages on its side, and been admir'd even by Barbarians themselves, when all other Traces of Politeneſs have been effaced.

Thou knowſt Parnaſſus Sweets the World invite,
And ſmootheſt Strains gives always moſt delight;
When Truths ſublime in Verſe harmonious roll,
'Twill into Raptures raiſe a Stoitk Soul.

Poetry.

Poetick Flights are pleasing Charms we use,
Heroick Thoughts and Virtue to infuse.

Poetry is an Art, whose sweet
Insinuation might almost convey Piety into resisting Nature, and melt
the hardiest Soul to the love of Virtue.

Things of deep Sense we may in Prose unfold,
But they please best in lofty Numbers told.

E. Austin Scr.

Painting.

Of all the Productions of human Ingenuity, of all the Operations, which the Fancy, assisted by the Hand is capable, there is none more excellent or Useful, none more Universally Admired than the Art of Painting.

Whatever yet in Poetry held True,
If duely weigh'd, holds just in Painting too;
Alike from Heav'n congenial first they came;
The same their Labours, & their Praise ye same:
Alike, by turns, they touch the conscious Heart,
And Each on Each reflects the Lights of Art.

It is not without just Ground that the Art of Painting is held in such high Repute: Her Beauties are, & ever will be Entertaining to the Curious, and Nothing more illustrates the Glory of a Nation than her Productions.

ADVICE
To Young Painters.

Like Zeuxis first with trembling Hand design
Some humble Work, and study Line by Line;
A Roman Urn, a Grove-encircl'd Bow'r,
The blushing Cherry, or the bending Flow'r.
Painful and slow to Noble Arts we rise,
And long long Labours wait the glorious Prize.
Yet by Degrees your steadier Hand shall give
A bolder Grace, and bid each Object live.
Ev'n Raphael's self from rude Essays began,
And shadow'd with a Coal his shapeless Man.

Painting.

In Ancient Times, when Painting first began,
A Pen, or Chalk, thus imitated Man.

Long time the Sister-Arts, in Iron Sleep,
A heavy Sabbath did Supinely keep:
At length, in Raphael's Age at once they rise,
Stretch all their Limbs, & open all their Eyes.
Thence rose the Roman & the Lombard Line,
One Colour'd best, and one did best Design.
Raphael's, like Homer's, was the nobler Part;
But Titian's Painting Look'd like Virgil's Art.

By slow Degrees the Painting Art advanc'd,
As Man grew polish'd, Picture was inhanc'd.

Decorum in Painting.

'Twas a Saying of Xenophon, that, Nothing pleases a Man so much as Decency & Order: And 'tis a Rule in Horace, which is equally Just in Painting as in Poetry.

Set all things in their own peculiar place,
And know, that Order is the greatest grace.

This good Oeconomy, or distribution of Figures and Strokes in their proper places, produces the same Effect, in relation to the Eyes, as a Concert of Musick to the Ears.

ON SCULPTURE.

Sculpture, too Sacred to be Man's Device,—
When Moses govern'd, had in Heaven its Rise;—
Where GOD, to make the useful Mistry known,
He Carv'd his Laws on Tabulets of Stone;—
And thus, at once, to Israel did impart
His own Commands, and this immortal Art.—

Sculpture.

Some carve ye Trunks, & breathing Shapes beston,
Giving the Trees more Life than when they grow.

The Ancients are of Opinion that the Labours of the Sculptor would have done greater Service to their Deities, than those of the Poet. They tell us that the great Veneration which the People paid to them, was owing to their Statues, and these were of Use to improve the Wonders the Poets related of those Gods. The Statue of Jupiter Olympus made them more easily give Credit to the Fable, that arms him with Thunder-bolt.

The Statues, so well Carv'd, such Life did show,
Spectators wonder'd why they did not go.

Wise Phidias, thus his Skill to prove,
Thro' many a God advanc'd to Jove;
And taught the polisht Rocks to shine
With Airs and Lineaments Divine;
Till Greece, amaz'd, and half-afraid,
Th' Assembled Deities survey'd.

This Wonder of the Sculptor's Hand
Produc'd, his Art was at a Stand:
For who would hope New Fame to raise,
Or risque his well-establish'd Praise,
That, his high Genius to approve,
Had carv'd the Gods, and came to Jove.

He Carv'd in Ivory such a Maid, so Fair,
As Nature could not with his Art compare.

Liberty.

The Love of Liberty with Life is giv'n,
And Life it self's th'inferior gift of Heav'n.

Lucius seems fond of Life, but what is Life?
'Tis not to stalk about, and draw fresh Air
From time to time, or gaze upon the Sun;
'Tis to be Free. When Liberty is gone,
Life grows insipid, and has lost its Relish.

'Tis Liberty of Choice that sweetens Life,
Makes ye glad Husband & ye happy Wife.

And Truth and Virtue grow beneath her Eye.

From British Laws our choicest Blessings come,
Honour abroad and Liberty at home.

Liberty.

LIBERTY SHOULD REACH EVERY INDIVIDUAL OF A PEOPLE, AS THEY ALL SHARE ONE COMMON NATURE; IF IT ONLY SPREADS AMONG PARTICULAR BRANCHES, THERE HAD BETTER BE NONE AT ALL; SINCE SUCH A LIBERTY ONLY AGGRAVATES THE MISFORTUNE OF THOSE WHO ARE DEPRIV'D OF IT, BY SETTING BEFORE THEM A DISAGREEABLE SUBJECT OF COMPARISON.

Business.

I'm sent the Genius of the British Isle,
Your Long bewild'red Thoughts to Unbeguile;—
Enrich your Selves, may Britain smile in Peace,
Your proper Business is your Trades Increase;
The Sea's your native Strength, Fish is y^r Wealth,
In other Projects you Amuse your Self:
Imploy your Poor in Fishing up that Oar,
To fill your Checquer, and secure your Shoar.—
Herrings, & Whales, the Mine is given you;
Search them they are your happier Peru.
In wooden Walls reign Monarchs of the Seas,
And stretch Commerce, & Conquest as you please.

Buſineſs.

How bright does the Soul grow with Uſe and Buſineſs? With what proportion'd ſweetneſs does that Family flourish, where but one Laborious Guide ſteers an order'd & regular Courſe.

When thou haſt BUSINESS of concern to do
With Prudence Act, and Reſolution too;
Under whoſe Conduct you will ſeldom Fail,

Success in Business;

Or, the Arts of Thriving.

The Arts to be used as means of Thriving in the World, are no other than those of an ingenious Industry and unreproveable Integrity, the two best & most solid Bases of a prosperous Condition.

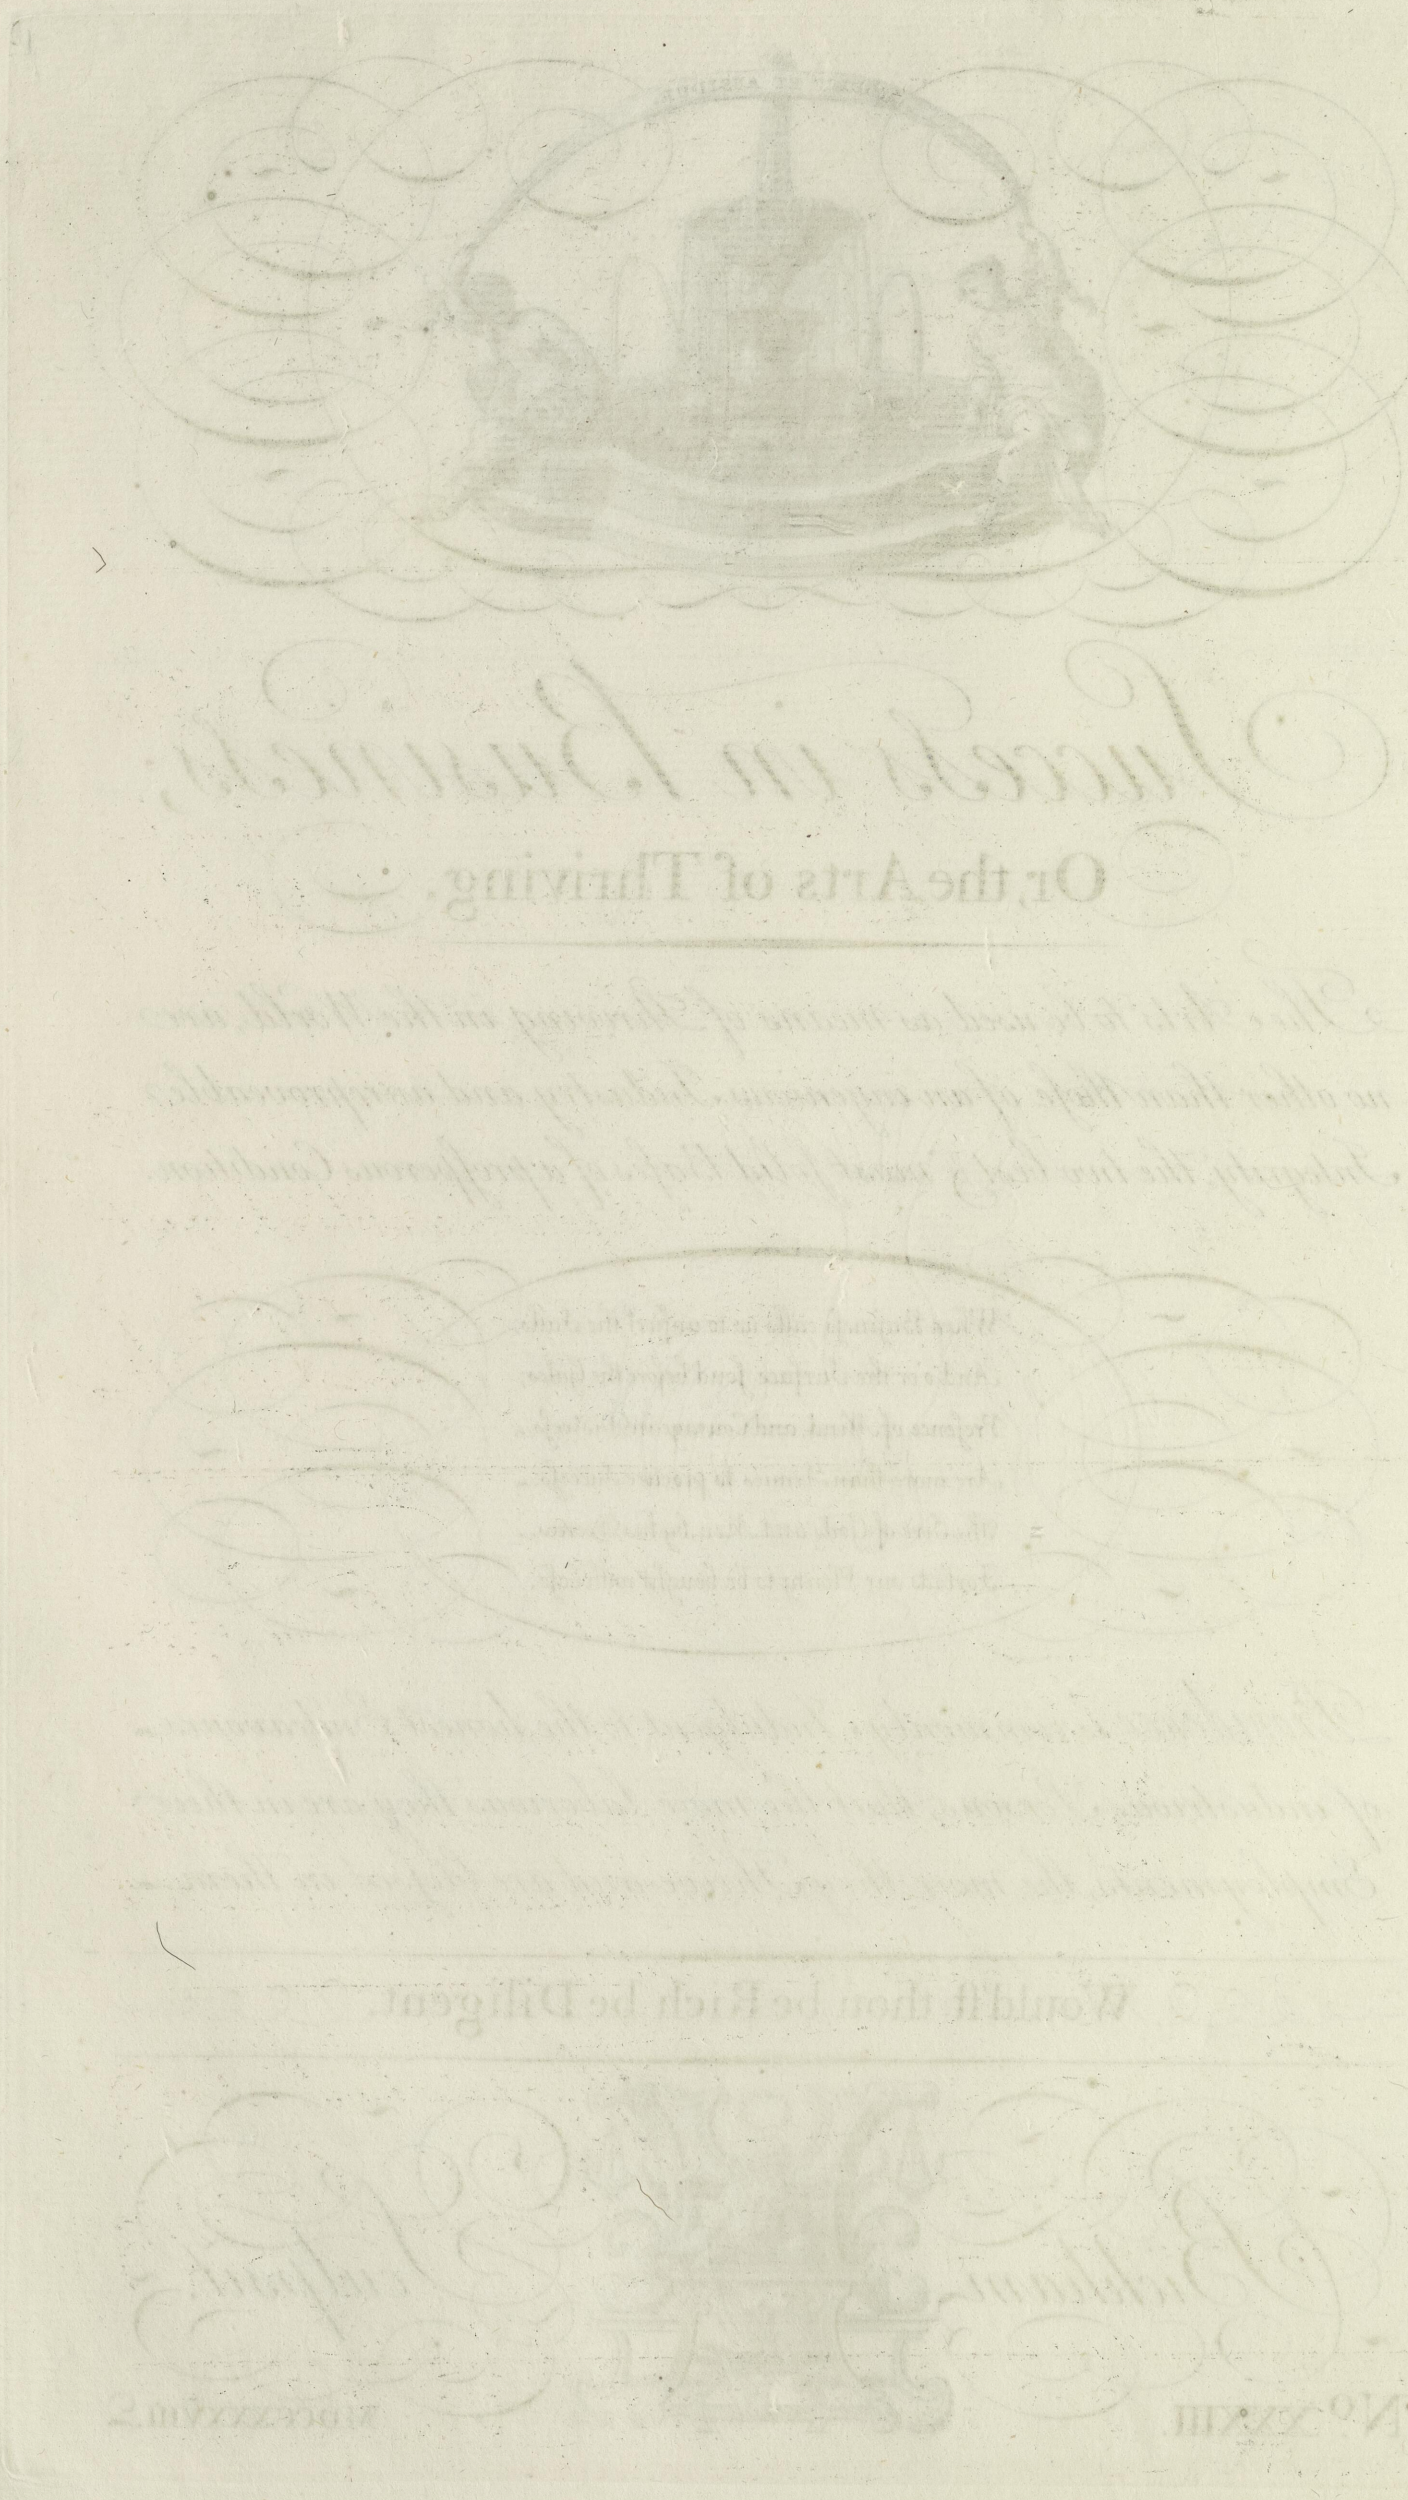

When Business calls us to unfurl the Sails,
And o'er the Surface scud before the Gales;
Presence of Mind, and Courage in Distress,
Are more than Armies to procure Success.
The Sire of Gods and Men, by his Decrees,
Forbids our Plenty to be bought with Ease.

Providence is commonly Indulgent to the honest Endeavours of industrious Persons, that the more laborious they are in their Employments, the more they Thrive and are blessed in them.

Reputation, and the Credit of the Merchant.

Good Name in Man or Woman,
Is the immediate Jewel of our Souls.
Who steals my Purse, steals Trash; 'tis something, nothing;
'Twas mine, 'tis his, & has been Slave to Thousands.
But he that filches from me my Good Name,
Robs me of that which not Enriches him,
And makes me poor indeed.

By untouch'd Credit and by Foreign Trade,
The Honest Merchant eminent is made;
In Words sincere, in Actions just and fair,
He makes his Credit the effect of CARE.

How careful ought a Man to be in his Language of a Merchant. It may possibly be in y^e^ Power of a very shallow Creature to Lay the Ruin of the best Family in the most opulent City; and the more so,
the more highly the Merchant deserves of his Country; that is to say, the farther he places his Wealth out of his hands, to draw home that of another Climate.

ON Promiſſory Notes.

A Promiſſory Note mentioning Order is indorſible from one Perſon to another; which is done by the preſent Poſſeſſor's writing his Name on the Back of it, and delivering it up to the Party, to whom he intends to aſſign over his Property therein.

It is unneceſſary to have a Promiſſory Note payable to Bearer indorſed, if you are ſatisfy'd the Note is good: And if a Note be indorſed, it is neceſſary to write a Receipt thereon, to prevent its being negociated, after it is paid and deliver'd up.

If the Drawer of a Note refuſes Payment, the Note is good againſt the Indorſer. The delivering up a Promiſſory Note to the Perſon who ſign'd it is a ſufficient Voucher of its being paid, nor is there any Occaſion of writing a Receipt thereon.

Promiſſory Notes, and Book-Debts, if not legally demanded in ſix Years, cannot be recover'd by Law: And if you keep a Promiſſory Note upon Demand, in your own Hands above three Days, and the Perſon it's upon ſhould fail, the Loſs will be your own; but if he fail within the three Days it will light on the Perſon that paid it you. Let all Notes be made for Value receiv'd, and in the Form of theſe that follow.

When Cupid did his Grandsire Jove entreat
To form some Beauty by a New Receipt;
Jove sent and found, far in a Country Scene,
Truth, Innocence, Good-Nature, Look serene:
From which Ingredients, first the dextrous Boy
Pick'd the Demure, the Awkward, and the Coy:
The Graces from the Court did next Provide
Breeding, and Wit, and Air, and decent Pride:
These Venus cleans'd from evry spurious Grain
Of Nice, Coquet, Affected, Pert, and Vain.
Jove mix'd up all, and his best Clay employ'd;
Then call'd the happy Composition Floyd.

A COMMISSION,

To the Master of a Ship.

The Company of English Merchants

For discovery of New Trades.

Do hereby Give and Grant unto Job Lookout Master of the George and Elizabeth, of the Burthen about Two Hundred and Fifty Tons, free Liberty and License to Sail to all or any the Lands, Islands, Ports, Havens, or Territories within the Limits granted to the said Company: Provided never the less upon this express Condition; That the said Master doth fully conform in all things to the Rules, Directions, and Restrictions hereunto annexed, otherwise this License to be Null and Void; and the said Master with his Ship, Goods and Merchandize, to be liable to all Penalties that may by Law be inflicted: Provided also that this License shall be of Force only for One Voyage out and home, and no longer: Dated in London the Tenth day of September, in One Thousand Seven Hundred Thirty and Nine.

By Order of the Governour, Consuls, and Assistants of the said Company.

George John's son Scripsit.

RULES,

Directions, and Restrictions;

To be observed by the within Named Job Lookout,

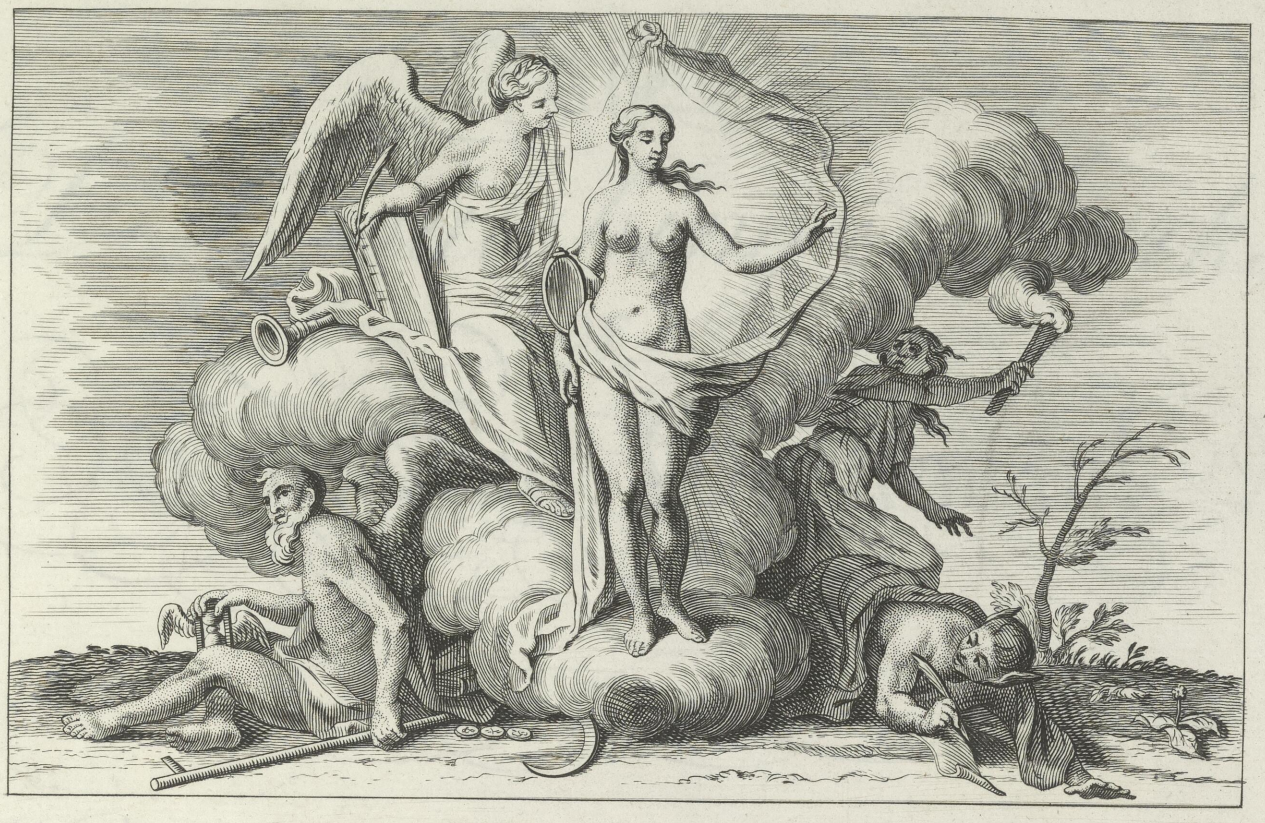

In his Voyage outwards and homewards.

Viz.

The said Master shall not take on board his said Ship, either for the Account of himself or any other Person whatsoever, any Goods or Merchandize, without a Permit or Warrant from the said Company, or their proper Officer, specifying the Nature, Quantities, Qualities, Kinds, Species, Weights, Numbers, and Package of the said Goods and Merchandize.

The said Master upon his Arrival in his designed Port outwards, before any Goods or Merchandize are unladen, shall deliver to the Company's Agent there, a full and particular Account of all Goods and Merchandize on board his said Ship, and by whom the said Goods or Merchandize were put on board in Great-Britain, and to whom they were Consigned, which said Account is to be signed by the said Master.

And the said Master upon his Arrival back at his delivering Port in Great-Britain, shall, before he break Bulk, deliver to the said Company, or their proper Officer, a like full and particular Account of his Loading, and by whom the several Species and Quantities of Goods or Merchandize were put on board his said Ship, and to whom they were Consigned, which Account is to be Signed by the said Master.

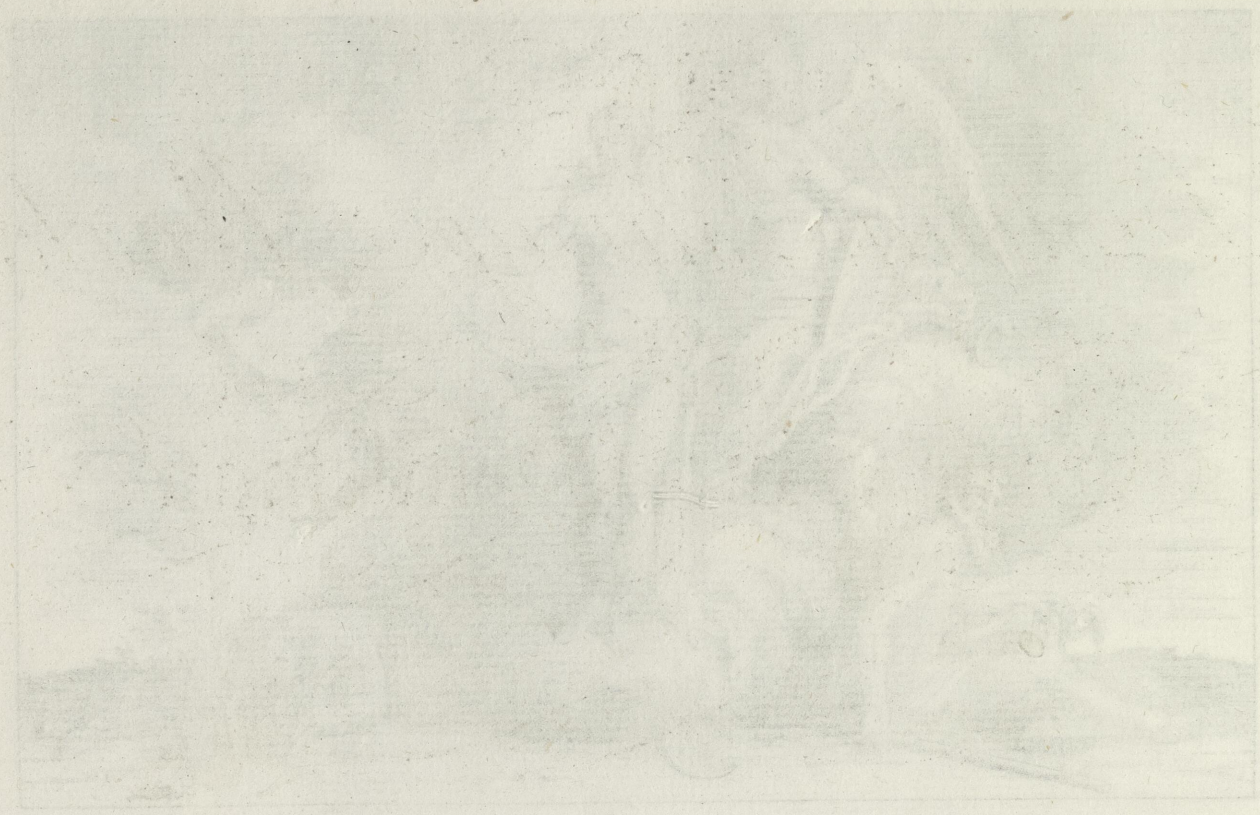

TRUTH.

Truth is the Band of Union, and the Basis of Humane Happiness: Without this Virtue there's no Relyance upon Language, no Confidence in Friendship, and no Security in Promises or Oaths.

Credit obtain'd, Untruth for Truth may pass,
As current Coin, tho' underneath 'tis Brass.
But if Perfidious thou but once be found,
Thy Words tho' true, like to Untruth will sound.

Truth is always consistent with it self, and needs nothing to help it out; it is always near at hand, and sits upon our Lips, and is ready to drop out before we are aware: Whereas a Lye is troublesome, and sets a Man's Invention on the Rack, and one Trick needs a great many more, of the same kind, to make it good.

The Distinguishing Marks OF A True Fine Gentleman.

When a good Artist would Expreſs any remarkable Character in Sculpture, he endeavours to Work up his Figure into all the Perfection his Imagination can form; and to imitate not so much what is as what may or ought to be. I shall follow their Example, in the Idea I am going to trace out of a fine Gentleman, by aſsembling together ſuch Qualifications as ſeem requiſite to make the Character compleat. In Order to this, I shall premiſe in general, that by a Fine Gentleman I mean a Man compleatly qualified as well for the Service and Good, as for the Ornament and Delight of Society. When I consider the Frame of Mind peculiar to a Gentleman, I ſuppose it graced with all the Dignity and Elevation of Spirit that Human Nature is capable of. To this I would have joined a clear Understanding, a Reason free from Prejudice, a ſteady Judgment, and an extensive Knowledge. When I think of the Heart of a Gentleman, I imagine it firm and intrepid, void of all inordinate Paſsions, and full of Tenderneſs, Compaſsion, and Benevolence. When I view the fine Gentleman with regard to his Manners, methinks I see him Modeſt without Bashfulneſs, frank and affable without Impertinence, obliging and complaisant without Servility, Cheerful and in good Humour without Noise. These amiable Qualities are not easily obtained; neither are there many Men, that have a Genius to excel this Way.

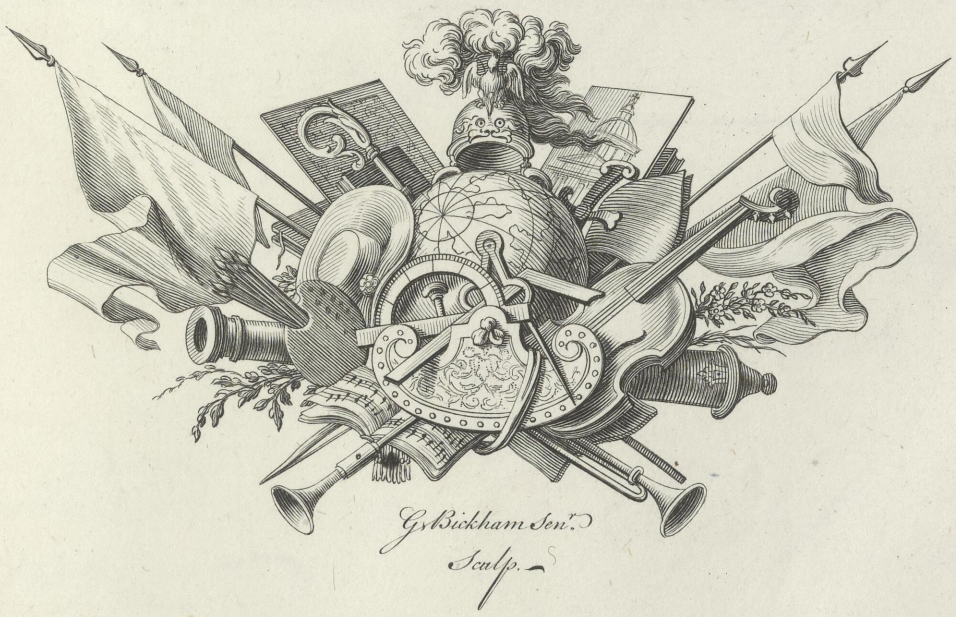

A finiſhed Gentleman is perhaps the most uncommon of all the great Characters in Life. Besides the natural Endowments with which this distinguiſhed Man is to be born, he must run through a long Series of Education. Before he makes his Appearance and Shines in the World, he must be principled in Religion, instructed in all the moral Virtues, and led through the whole Course of the polite Arts and Sciences. He should be no Stranger to Courts and to Camps; he must Travel to open his Mind, to enlarge his Views, to learn the Policies and Interest of foreign States, as well as to fashion and polish himself, and to get clear of National Prejudices; of which every Country has its Share. To all these more essential Improvements, he must not forget to add the fashionable Ornaments of Life, such as are the Languages and the bodily Exercises most in Vogue: Neither would I have him think even Dress it Self beneath his Notice.

It is no very uncommon Thing in the World to meet with Men of Probity; there are likewise a great many of Honour to be found: Men of Courage, Men of Sense, and Men of Letters are frequent: But a true fine Gentleman is what one seldom sees. He is properly a Compound of the various good Qualities that embellish Mankind. As the great Poet animates all the different Parts of Learning by the Force of his Genius, and irradiates all the Compass of his Knowledge by the Lustre and Brightness of his Imagination; so all the great and solid Perfections of Life appear in the finished Gentleman, with a beautiful Gloss and Varnish; every thing he says or does is accompanied with a Manner, or rather a Charm, that draws the Admiration and Good-will of every Beholder.

WISDOM.

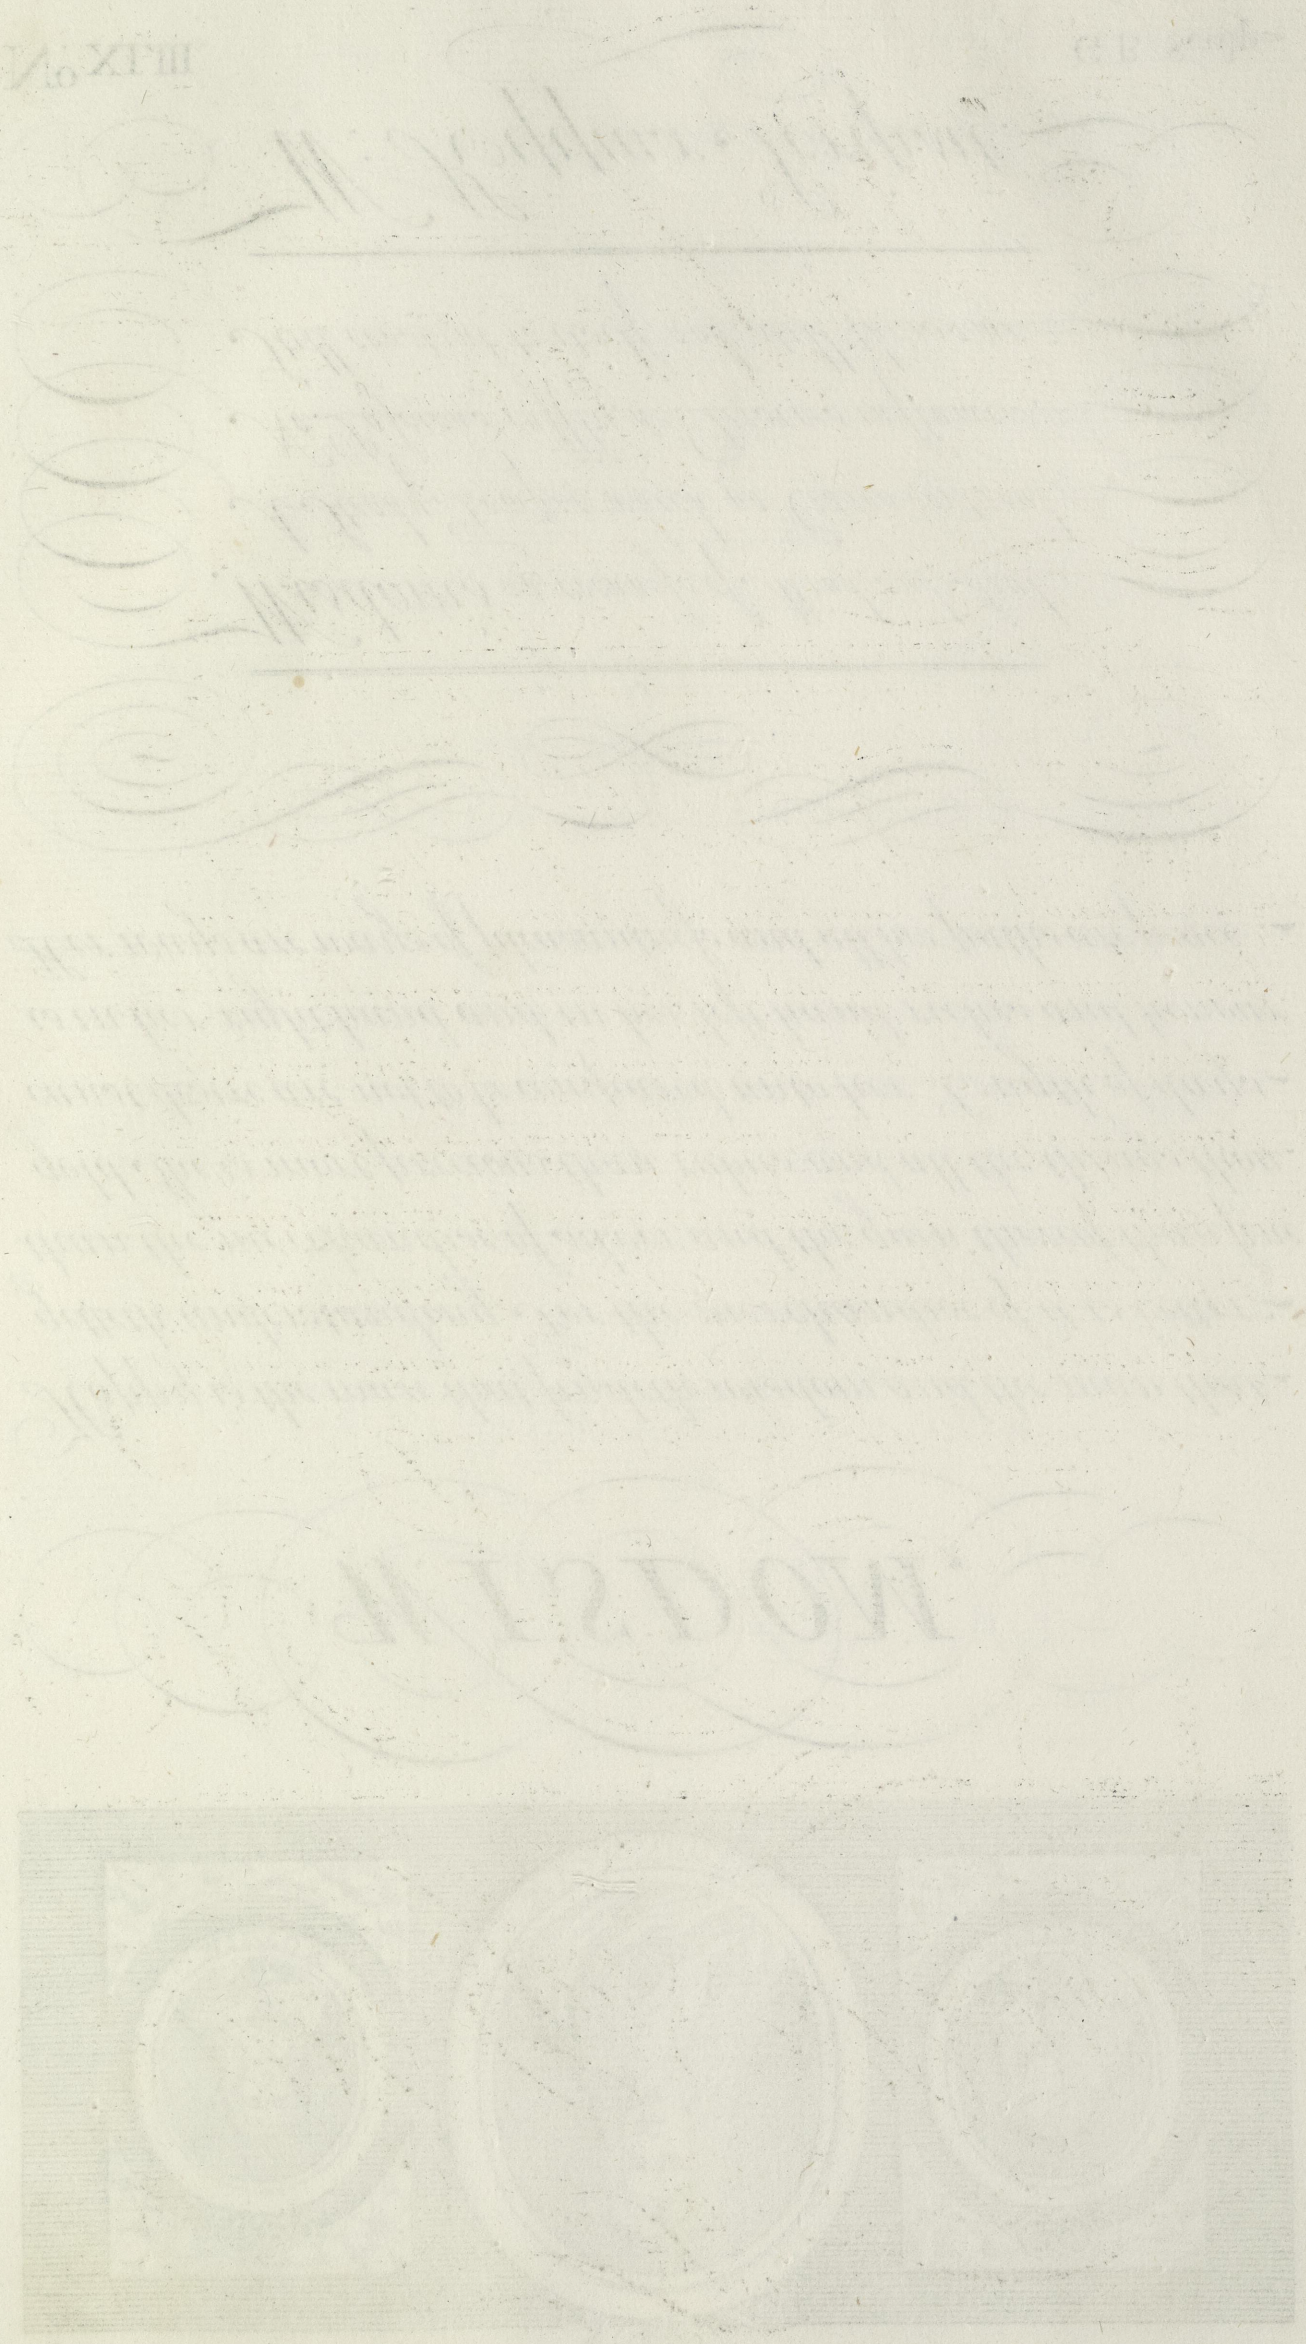

Happy is the man that findeth wisdom, and the man that getteth understanding. For the merchandise of it is better than the merchandise of silver, and the gain thereof than fine gold. She is more precious than rubies; and all the things thou canst desire are not to be compared unto her. Length of days is in her right hand and in her left hand riches and honour. Her ways are ways of pleasantness and all her paths are peace.

Wisdom's an evenness of Mind and Soul,
A Steady Temper, which no Cares controul;
No Passions ruffle, no Desires inflame;
Still constant to itself, and still the same.

What greater Theme your Musick can produce,
My babling Praises I repeat no more;

Eliza's Glory lives in Spencer's Song;
And Cowley's Verse keeps Fair Orinda young:
That as in Birth, in Beauty You Excel,
The Muſe might dictate, and the Poet tell:

Gentlemen,

I take this Opportunity of recommending to you, One very material Branch of Education, which has hitherto been too much neglected: A particular which is of use in every Station of Life, and which methinks every Master should teach his Scholars, I mean the writing of Familiar Letters. To this end, instead of some other things, there might be a punctual Correspondence establish'd between two Boys, who might act in any imaginary parts of Business, or be allowed sometimes to give a range to their own Fancies, and communicate to each other whatever Trifles they thought fit, provided neither of them ever fail'd at the appointed time to answer his Correspondent's Letter.

I believe I may venture to affirm, that the generality of Boys would find themselves as much advantaged by this Custom (when they come to be Men), as by any other that can possibly be propos'd: But this I Submit to your Superior Judgments, and am,

Ill Effects of Tyranny.

Besides Poverty and Want, there are other Reasons that debase the Minds of Men, who live under Tyranny, though I look on this as the Principal. It is odd to consider the Connection between Despotic Government and Barbarity, & how ye making of one Person more than Man, makes eye rest less.

Too long this Queen imperiously thus Sway'd,
By no set Laws, but by her Will obey'd.
Her fearful Slaves, to full Obedience grown,
Admire her Strength, & dare not use their own.

If there be but one Body of Legislators, it is no better than a Tyranny; if there are only two, there will want a casting Voice, and one of them must at length be swallow'd up by Disputes and Contentions: Four would have the same Inconvenience as Two, and a greater Number would cause too much Confusion: Therefore a mixt Government consisting of three Branches, ye Regal, ye Noble, & the Popular, is the best.

To the Kings most Excell.t Majesty;

The humble Petition of A. B. Gent.

Sheweth,

That your Majesty has been graciously pleased to appoint your Petitioner to be Sheriff of the County of K.... wherein he would most readily, and faithfully serve your Majesty according to his bounden duty, but that his abode is very remote from the said County, and his Estate too small to support the charge of the said Office.

Your petitioner therefore most humbly prays your Majesty will be graciously pleased to appoint some more fit & able person to the said Office

And your Petitioner (as in duty bound) shall ever Pray, &c.

Design'd, & Written by J. Champion, in the Year 1740.

To the Right Honourable the Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty.

The humble Petition of George Troy.

Sheweth,

That Your Petitioner hath Served in his Majesty's Royal Navy seven Years in quality of Able Seaman, and five Years as Gunners Mate on Board his Majesty's Ships the Cumberland and Dartmouth Capt.ⁿ Brown Commander,

That He passed Examination for a Gunner November 12. 1739. & humbly refers Your Lordships to the Certificates hereunto annexed.

Your Petitioner humbly Prays Your Lordships to Appoint him Gunner of the Britannia Sloop, S.ʳ John Saunderson Commander.

And as in duty bound shall ever Pray, &c.

Dove, scr.

These are to Certifie whom it may Concern that the bearer hereof George Troy Served five Years in Quality of Gunners Mate on Board his Majesty's Ships the Cumberland & Dartmouth both under my Command, during which time he behaved Soberly Diligently and Obedient to Command, And I recommend him as deserving Encouragement. Given under my hand on Board his Majesty's Ship the Cumberland this 12 day of October, 1739.

J Brown

To the Right Honourable the Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty.

We whose Names are hereunder Written Gunners, in his Majesty's Royal Navy, do hereby Certifie that George Troy performed the Several Heads of Examination appointed by Your Lordships to Qualify him for a Gunner on the 12 of November, 1739. And we do believe him capable to Serve as Gunner on Board any of his Majesty's fourth Rate Ships. Given under our hands on Board the Namure this 14 day of November, 1739.

Freedom.

Sweet are the Jessmin's breathing Flowrs,
Sweet the soft falling Vernal Showrs;
Sweet is the Gloom the Grove affords,
And Sweet the Notes of Warbling Birds;
But not the Groves, nor Rains, nor Flowrs,
Nor all the Feather'd Songsters Powrs,
Can ever Sweet, or Pleasing be,
O, lovely Freedom! without Thee.

To the Practitioners in the Law.

Gentlemen,

Since the Affairs whith are daily carried on in our Courts of Judicature are, doubtless, of as great Importance as those transacted in the Way of Trade; and, there being Several Ingenious Gentlemen of your Profession, who are very desirous of seeing some select Pages entirely appropriated to the Law-Hands: I therefore, at Mr. Bickham's Request, have writ some such Pieces for the Universal Penman; and, present this as a Specimen of the Secretary, or Law Running Hand, adapted to the use of the Practising-Clerk, with the following Specimens annex'd; all whith are submitted to your superior Judgments, by

Gentlemen;

Merit.

A Man who entertains an high Opinion of himself is naturally ungrateful: He has too great an Esteem of his own Merit to be thankful for any Favours receiv'd. amm

Tho' Square-Text outd Triumphantly did Stand,
And boldly ushor'd in th' Engrossing-Hand;
Tho' wanting Merit now, did Shine of Old,
In This Indenture, and to Have and Hold.

More Bashfulness, without Merit, is Awkward; and Merit, without Modesty, insolent: But Modest Merit has a double Claim to Attestants, and generally meets with as many Patrons as Beholders. ama

ON LIBERTY;

Written in 1707,

By the late DUKE of Devonshire.

O despicable State of all that groan
Under a blind Dependency on One!
How far inferior to the Herds that range,
With Native Freedom o'er the Woods & Plains!
With them no Fallacies of Schools prevail,
Nor of a Right Divine the nauseous Tale,
Can give to one among themselves the Pow'r,
Without Controul his Fellows to devour.
To reasoning Human Kind alone belong,
The Arts to hurt themselves by reas'ning wrong.

How'ere the foolish Notion first began,
Of trusting Absolute to lawless Man;
How'ere a Tyrant may by Force subsist;
For who would be a Slave that can resist?
Those set the Casuist safest on the Throne,
Who make the People's Interest their own.
And chusing rather to be lov'd than fear'd,
Are Kings of Men, not of a servile Herd.
O Liberty, too late desir'd, when lost,
Like Health, when wanted, thou art valu'd most!

THE Oriental Languages.

INTRODUCTION.

The Hebrew is the most antient Language in the World, at least that is known to the Europeans: The square Hebrew Character is originally the Chaldee Character, which the Jews assumed during the Babylonish Captivity. As particular Companies of Men became Inhabitants of different parts of the World, and had different Languages, so they invented various Characters: The Greeks and Romans have herein been most famous, and their Characters are chiefly us'd in Europe; but the Oriental Nations have their own peculiar manner of Writing; several Specimens of which, may be seen in the following Page.

Engrav'd by G. Bickham, Sen.r

The Alphabet is the whole Order of the Letters in any Language, from Alpha and Beta, the two first Letters in the Greek Tongue. The English Alphabet contains twenty six Letters, but others differ in their Number and Form, and vary in their Placing and Writing. The Hebrews write from the Right hand to the Left; Others from Left to Right, and back again from Right to Left; The Chinese from Top to Bottom, and from Right to Left; but the Europeans, and most Others, write from Left to Right without Retrogression to the Left. All our English Alphabets are exhibited in the two next Pages.

If you would write both Legible and Fair,
Copy these Alphabets with all your Care.

Observations,

FOR

Ingenious Penmen;

BY

Mr. Hart.

'Tis hard a Sprightly Fancy to Command,—
And give a Respit to the labring Hand:—
In vain we Strive each trivial Fault to hide,—
That shows but little Judgment, and more Pride.—
Like some Nice Prude, offensive to the Sight,—
Exactness gives, at best, a Cold Delight.——
Each painful Stroke disgusts the lovely Mind;—
For Art is Lost, when Over-much refin'd.—
To Err is Mortal; do whate'er we can,——
Some faulty Trifles will confess the Man.—
Wisest are they who each mad Whim repress,—
And Shun Gross Errours, by committing Less.—

Non omnia possumus omnes. Virg.
